Defining Testimony HQ (THQ)

Testimony HQ (THQ) is a hub or “headquarters” to help people learn how to tell their God stories. We define testimony as “a good story that is also a God story,” and we believe that God stories have the power to build community. Stories told inside the church spill out into wider circles—the cities, towns, and neighborhoods where we live. When we “speak about what we have seen and heard” (Acts 4:20), we become more connected to people, and we help people connect more with God and with our congregation. THQ helps churches make this change by integrating testimony as a focus of their ministry in the church as well as the wider community.

Purpose of the Congregational Survey

We’re excited for you to complete this survey because it will provide critical information for your church’s successful participation in THQ. The honest input you give will help your church measure where it is now in relation to testimony as community engagement before it begins with THQ. Your name will be anonymous, so please provide transparent responses, and take your time with this survey. Thank you in advance for your participation.

Accessing and Sharing the Survey

Per the THQ Cohort Covenant, at least 10% of your church’s members and constituents must complete the congregational survey by September 15, 2026. Below are two ways to share this survey with your congregation:

1. Click on this anonymous link to take the survey:
